Formifex

The operating system of a manufacturing company

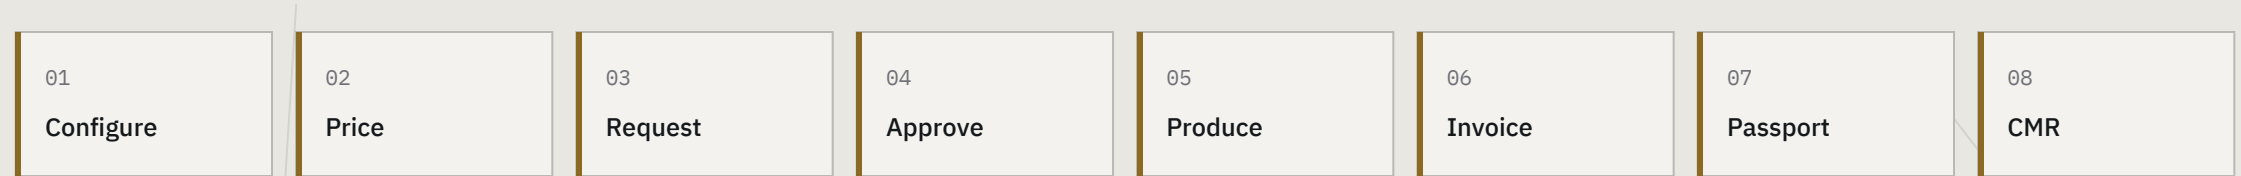

For a manufacturer whose price is made while choosing, not printed in a list.

The concept and what it makes possible

vivifex.com

A made-to-order manufacturer cannot use any existing platform

They all want an SKU with a fixed price. But your product is different every time, the price is made while choosing, and an order is not a purchase — it is a request a human has to approve. And after that come production, documents, transport, warranty.

- One number for everything. The same number travels through the notification, the invoice, the passport and the consignment note. No document lives on its own.
- The human stays at the gate. No order starts production without an approval. What is automated is the information, not the decision.
- Products are data, not code. A new product entered in the panel appears in the shop, the sitemap and the bot by itself.

What a system like this can do

Live prices

Each model with its own tree of choices. No price is typed into a page by hand, and if the system does not answer, a price is never EUR 0.

VAT that is verified

The customer's number is checked against the European Commission's register at the moment of the order. Reverse charge applies itself; the answer is the accountant's proof.

Stock as a ledger

A quantity is never overwritten — every change is an entry with a reason. Stock below the threshold orders from the supplier by itself.

A partner portal

A dealer prepares the offer in his customer's language and currency from his own panel. Two prices that never meet in one document.

A product passport

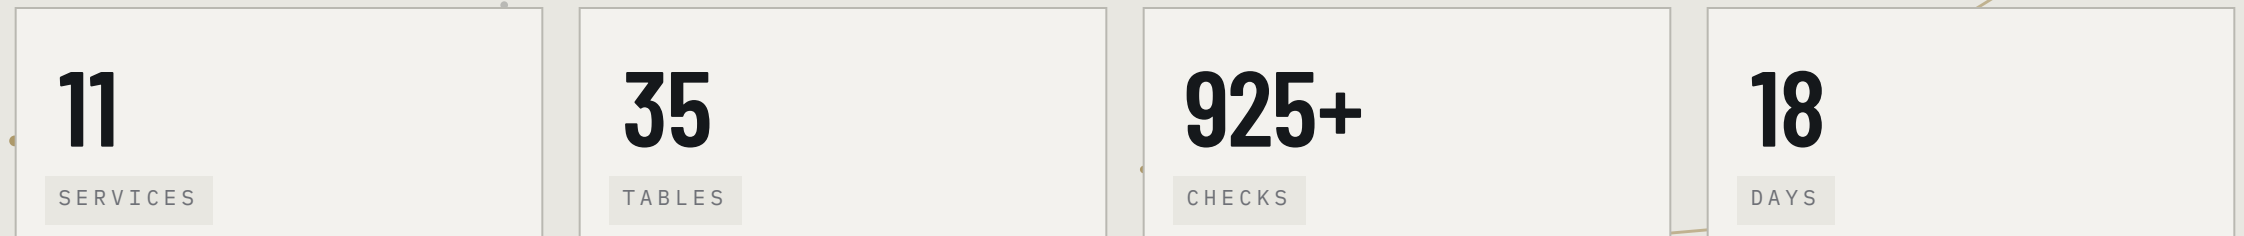

A QR code on the finished product, on your own domain, with no personal data — and a channel to a person you would never otherwise reach.

An assistant with access

Not canned answers: it reads the price list, the stock and the order at the moment somebody asks.

This is not a concept on paper

One manufacturer uses it every day, and real money runs through it — order, invoice, stock, consignment note.

- The first installation is Sauna4Soul. A sauna manufacturer in Latvia: ten configurators, two portals, a digital passport and the full document chain.
- Eighteen days from the first line to a live shop. That is what is really on offer here — the method and the speed, not the code.
- And it keeps growing. Every improvement made for one reaches all of them in time — one system, not separate copies.

IN YOUR WORKS

Could this be yours

TRANSFERS

- The chain: configure → price → order → approve → produce → document
- The data model: a ledger, not an overwritten number
- VAT and cross-border trade logic
- Documents generated from one number

MADE ANEW

- Your product, your choices, your pricing principle
- Your industry's documents and regulations
- The order of your processes — it is never the same
- The design and the words your customer sees

*So it is neither a program off the shelf nor a build from nothing.
Tell us what takes the hours in your works — we will say honestly whether it is worth building.*
